

Acquisition of Document Evidence Ltd.

Key Forensic Services has just acquired the business of Document Evidence Limited, based in central Birmingham.

Document Evidence has been providing a forensic document examination service to police forces for the past 16 years since its formation as the first independent forensic supplier.

Amongst its recent high profile investigations was the work carried out into uncovering the wholesale theft of votes in the local elections in Birmingham, where thousands of postal ballots were fraudulently filled in on an industrial scale.

Commenting on the acquisition, Key Forensics' MD Mike Holden said "Document Evidence adds another valuable field of expertise to our portfolio of services and further strengthens our position in the UK forensic marketplace. We are delighted to welcome the team on board."

The Document Evidence brand name will continue to be used as it is well recognised and respected, nationally and internationally.

The services offered remain un-changed and include handwriting examination, typed or printed document analysis, inks, impressions / ESDA, and all other aspects of document production.

Seen here are the some of the DEL team: Steve Cosslett, Kate Barr, Kim Hughes, Liz Barratt and Sarah Gough, joined by KFS MD Mike Holden and Directors Martin Davies and Brian Thomas.
